An enrollment consultancy

Better trial enrollment.

FPI's mission is simple: to improve enrollment in clinical trials.

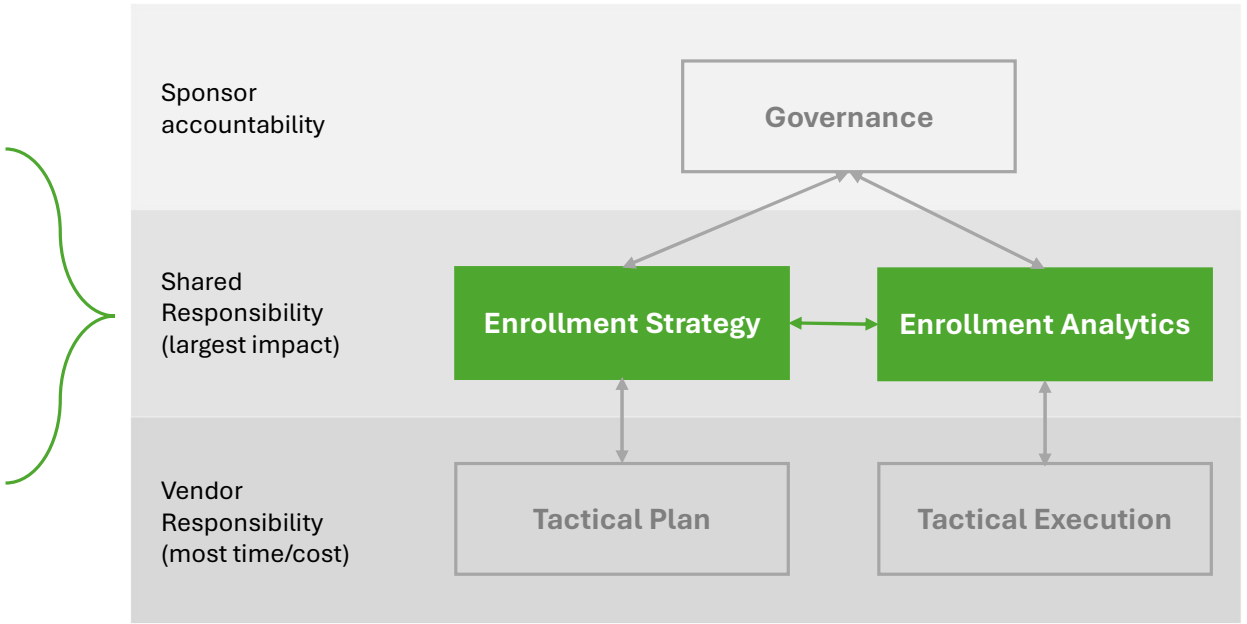

We work with all stakeholders – sponsors, sites, and enrollment vendors – to maximize their abilities to recruit and retain trial participants.

Effective trial enrollment is a sponsor's competitive advantage

The critical layer
While recruitment operations can be effectively outsourced, the enrollment strategy and analytics used to guide and manage those operations cannot be without high risk.

FPI helps sponsors build stronger internal systems and processes to support this governance interface.

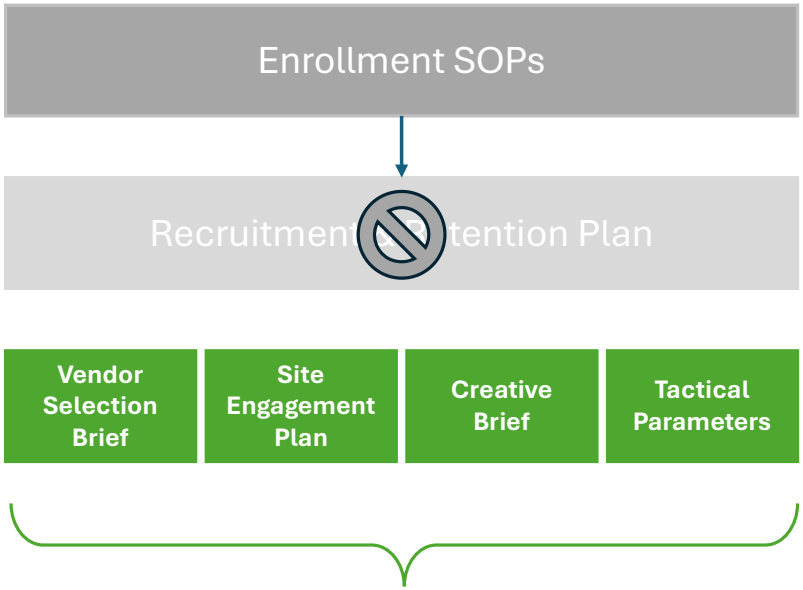

Enrollment strategy

While recruitment vendors can be a valuable source of strategic thinking and experience, the overall enrollment strategy must be articulated – and owned – by the sponsor team

Key decisions for each trial's enrollment strategy include:

- Participant segmentation: how do we define key similarities and differences in the protocol population?
- Site engagement: what is the plan to maximize site focus and resourcing for this trial?
- Tactical parameters: is this trial a candidate for experimental/pilot approaches, or do timelines dictate more standard and validated tactics?
- Vendor requirements: what type of vendor is ideal for this program? How will the vendor be selected and managed?

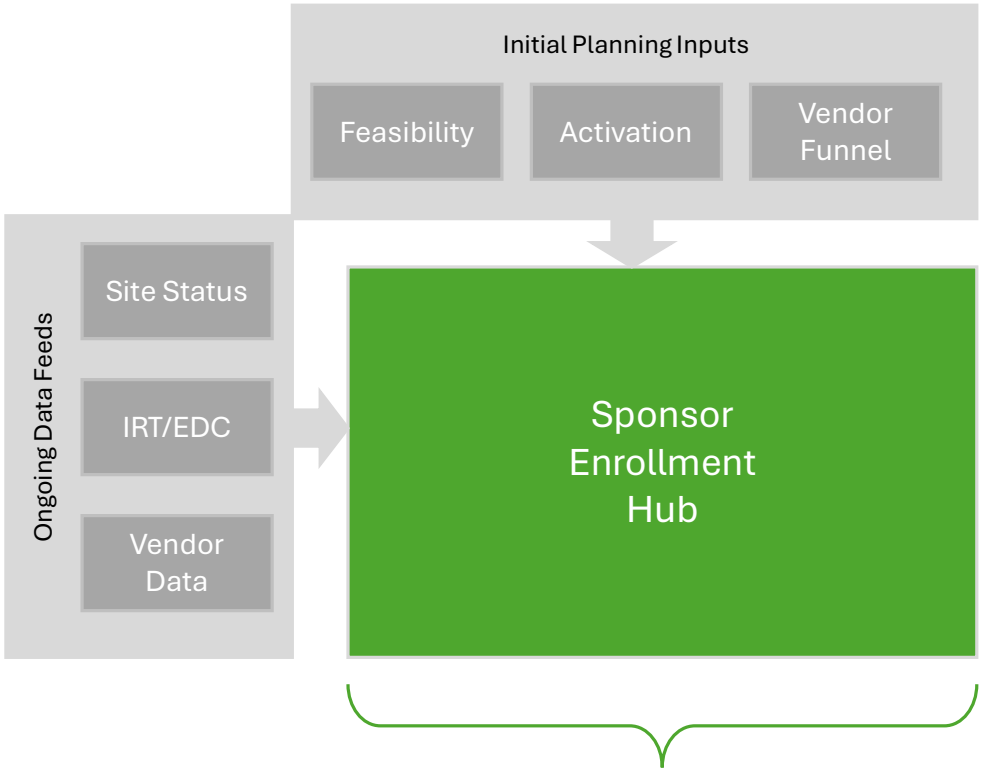

FPI works with sponsor leadership to develop a process that replaces generalized recruitment plans with a set of clear, protocol-specific strategy briefs.

Enrollment analytics

A useful enrollment analytics hub for all sponsor trials is a necessary condition for consistent success.

Enrollment analytics should bring clarity for both operations and recruitment teams by delivering focused tracking and data:

- Benchmarking: establishing clear expectations and milestones before enrollment begins
- Dashboards: focusing the entire operations team on core metrics
- Projections: modeling future performance as sites activate, recruitment tactics run, and data begins to come it
- Vendor data standards: minimum required data set that can be imported into the sponsor system
